Munich, January 2012

ABOUT THE PROGRAMM

The German Silicon Valley Accelerator (GSVA) supports German start-ups in the information and communications industry to spend three months exploring the U.S. market and its opportunities for growth.

Every quarter, up to four companies have the opportunity to participate in the GSVA Program and gain a foothold in Silicon Valley, California.

Based on sufficient success and proven market opportunities, the stay may be extended up to six months.

VISION & MISSION

The German Silicon Valley Accelerator enables selected German start-ups to gain access to the U.S. market and/ or to make contact with successful companies in the U.S. market without giving up their headquarters in Germany.

The young companies have the opportunity to focus on business development, marketing, and sales in the world's biggest technology market, with the support of local experts.

As an incubator in Silicon Valley, the GSVA provides optimal conditions for German start-ups.

It has already laid the necessary groundwork, with an excellent infrastructure and an extensive local network.
